

What fun Prom Day was at our house! The Saturday began with Karl Andrew and I attending a Retreat at church for 1st Communion candidates. The Retreat was from 9-noon. Then we headed straight from Chance's YMCA Basketball game from 12:30-1:30. Chance's girlfriend, Taylor, and her mom arrived at my house at 2:00 for their Mary Kay Prom Makeovers!

They left at 3:30 for Taylor's hair appointment and to dress. Now, it's Chance's turn. Chance and his buddy, Mike, got ready at our house. Man, they looked handsome in their tuxedos! I fussed over them as much as they would let me. Mike's mom came over and we took the mom/son pictures. Then the boys get their corsages and head off in the Pink Cadillac to pick up their dates! Everyone comes back to my house for the photo session! We took tons of pictures. Okay, it's 5:30. Time to head out for their Big Night. They were so excited to be driving the Pink Cadillac! (The Cadillac had just been delivered 4 days earlier, so it was literally a BRAND NEW 2002 fully loaded Pink Cadi!) Does it get any better than this?! They typed in the address to the restaurant on the GPS system and watched it map out the route and give perfect directions. They grabbed 3 DVD movies in case they wanted to watch a movie in the car. (Can you believe this car has a DVD player in the dash?!!) I got so tickled watching them play with the car! They cranked up the stereo, opened the sun roof and drove off, grinning from ear to ear. Ahhh to be 17.

I can't tell you what great joy this day brought me. It was truly a moment in time; Lifelong memories for me and for my family. When Chance came home that night, he said he and Taylor danced the night away. It was a Cinderella story. Only instead of going to the ball in a Coach, he went to the Prom in his mom's Pink Cadillac. Mary Kay is no fairytale....it is a dream come true.

Pink Cadillacs & Prom

Just seem to go together!
